10 Reasons Why Abortion After Rape is Not Compassionate

Don't Punish the Baby

Why impose capital punishment on the innocent baby? The sexual assailant is the guilty party and should be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

Raped Twice

Many women who were raped and chose abortion to end the pregnancy said the abortion felt like they were raped twice. The abortion was a second violent act against their bodies.

Love Them Both

After a sexual assault we must support the woman to our fullest ability while offering love and support to her unborn child. We can and must love them both.

It's HER Baby, Not His

When women are asked if they see the rapist's face every time they look at their baby, many defiantly respond, "This is my baby NOT his! I don't see my rapist, only my beautiful child who I cherish."

Show Them Jesus

Coming alongside a woman who's been raped and is pregnant is an opportunity to show her Jesus. People are more open to the gospel message during a crisis, so show her the blessings of being a child of God and point her to His endless mercies during this difficult time.

The Biggest Blessing

Women who chose life after sexual assault say their babies are a huge blessing to come from a tragic ordeal. Her baby provides love, comfort, and joy beyond measure.

Minister to Her Soul

At such a deeply dark and difficult time, you can attend to her in ways that will have an eternal impact. Take out your bible and minister to her soul.

No Regret

Women who chose abortion after rape express grief and regret over their decisions. While women who rejected abortion for their babies were grateful because of their decision to say yes to life.

I Have Rights Too

Those conceived in rape have the same right to live as you and I. Regardless of the circumstances of their conceptions, God has a perfect plan for their lives. Watch what they do with it!

It's a Generational Decision

Choosing life for a baby conceived in rape not only provides blessings to the mother and child. This individual will likely go on to marry and have children of their own, meaning this choice for life will favorably impact many generations to come.
